(b) if so, whether the Union Government have accepted the same; and

(c) if not, the reasons therefor the steps being considered to be taken in this regard?

Answer

MINISTER OF LABOUR (DR. SATYANARAYAN JATIYA)

(a) to (c): Certain amendment proposals to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and Trade Unions ACt, 1926 have been received from the Government of Andhra Pradesh. These proposals have been formulated by the State Government to improve the investment climate and boost exports from the State. Various amendments to the I.D. Act, 1947 are proposed based on the requirements of the social partners and in consonance with economic reforms. The State Government of Andhra Pradesh has beenrequested to await enactment of the amendments to this Act by the Parliament. As the amendment proposals to the Trade Unions Act, 1926 are under consideration of the Parliament, the proposal of the Government of Andhra Pradesh could await the passage ofthe Bill and its enactment by the Parliament.
